TriCab Group
Code of Conduct

policy

Purpose

TriCab is committed to doing what is right and acting with integrity. This Code of Conduct ('the Code') sets the standards and guidelines for how our values can be put into practice. The Code is designed to provide clear guidance to help employees understand what is acceptable and what is not acceptable when working with colleagues, suppliers, contractors, customers, governments and communities.

Scope

This policy applies to all employees across TriCab Group.

Expectations

TriCab is committed to ensuring that all employees exhibit the highest level of personal integrity, accountability and honesty whilst providing exceptional customer service.

In adhering to the Code, all employees will:

1) obey and act in accordance with the law and report unethical or unlawful behaviour;
2) treat everyone with honesty, courtesy and respect; including respect for dignity, rights, freedoms and individual needs;
3) uphold equal opportunity principles and do not partake in bullying, sexual harassment, unlawful discrimination, aggressive or antisocial behaviour;
4) respect and safeguard the organisation's property and that of fellow workers;
5) maintain confidentiality, promote the interests of the business and do not disclose or misuse company property or information;
6) perform duties with professionalism, care and responsibility to the best of their ability considering their skills, experience, qualifications and positions;
7) maintain a safe working environment and do their jobs in a safe, responsible and effective manner, including reporting safety risks and inappropriate behaviour;
8) ensure personal business and financial interests do not conflict with their duty to TriCab, take steps to avoid a conflict of interest, disclose details of an actual or potential conflict of interest and any gifts or benefits have been received;
9) comply and act in accordance with TriCab's policies, procedures, values, mission, reasonable lawful directions and rules; and
10) make informed decisions and reinforce the organisation's commitment to the highest standards in business and professional ethics and be accountable for their own actions and decisions.

Values

Does this fit with TriCab's values and policies?

Does this fit with my personal values?

Safety

Could this directly or indirectly endanger myself or others or cause physical or psychological harm?

Reputation

If everyone knew about this, would I feel comfortable?

If I got caught doing this, would it matter?

Law

Is this legal and aligned to policies, training and procedures?

Feeling

Does this feel right to me?

What does my gut and conscience tell me about this?

The importance of speaking up

It is everyone's responsibility to do the right thing. TriCab encourages everyone to speak up about behaviours that do not align to the Code and our values. Breaching our Code may result in serious consequences, up to and including termination.

Speak up	What happens when I speak up?	Protecting those who do speak up
• If you see something, say something • Be as open, honest and specific as you can be • Talk to your direct manager, General Manager or HR Manager • Report to the Whistleblower Hotline	• We treat all reports respectfully, sensitively and with confidentiality • Once a concern is raised, it will be handled and escalated as required • Sometimes advice, guidance and support can resolve the issue directly • Other times, it may require internal or external investigation	• TriCab has a zero-tolerance approach to victimisation and retaliation • Ensuring everyone feels safe to speak up without fearing intimidation, harassment, exclusion or retaliation is essential • Anyone engaging in retaliatory, victimising behaviour or involved in adverse action is breaching the Code and may face disciplinary action

Our Code

Respect for one another is at the heart of everything we do

02
Success comes from caring about our community

03
We are motivated to produce with integrity and innovation

04
We protect one another and the Company

1. Respect for one another is at the heart of everything we do

Ensuring a healthy and safe working environment is our priority, and everyone's responsibility. To manage risks, employees must abide by all health and safety regulations, procedures, policies and plans and report all workplace-related injuries, incidents, hazards, and near misses. If you are a leader, you must ensure supporting systems and processes are in place for an environment where everyone is encouraged to feel safe and report concerns.

Workplace health and safety

TriCab's Zero Harm and Wellbeing strategy outlines our commitment to providing employees a working environment which is healthy, safe and productive, both mentally and physically.

✓ Always	✕ Never
• Stop any work that appears unsafe or if the required personal protective equipment (PPE) is not used	• Participate in behaviour that may endanger yourself or others
• Comply with all health, safety and security requirements, use all PPE provided	• Work in an unsafe manner, including not wearing PPE or following procedures
• Report all hazards, risks, accidents, injuries, illnesses, unsafe or unhealthy conditions, incidents, spills to your manager or the WHS/HR Team	• Perform work outside of your competency level, including misusing or adjusting TriCab's property, plant, or equipment or using any equipment or plant without authorisation, licensing and training
• Participate in training programs	• Smoke outside of designated areas including in company vehicles
• Take ownership of your work area and actively participate in identifying, assessing and controlling risks and hazards	• Perform work unless you are trained, medically fit and sufficiently rested and alert
• Follow Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs), policies, reasonable directions and site-specific safety and work instructions	• Use, possess, purchase or traffic illegal/unprescribed substances; or take substances without declaring the impact on your ability to work safely
• Speak up to your manager if you have concerns about your own or your colleague's fitness for work or ability to carry out work safely	• Consume drugs or become excessively intoxicated at work including at work events or when representing TriCab
• Act on all complaints, issues or incidents reported to you	• Bring weapons or illegal items onto TriCab property
• Speak up to your manager or WHS/HR if you are unsure	• Refuse to clarify expectations or follow procedures and directions

Respect for all

Everyone needs to understand and demonstrate the expected standards of behaviour. Psychological safety underpins one of our key values, whereby we succeed by learning from each other and sharing with everyone. Psychological safety can only thrive where everyone feels safe to speak up, share ideas and be valued for their input. Bullying, harassment, sexual harassment, discrimination, racism and disrespect cause harm and have no place at TriCab. If you see, hear, experience or witness behaviour that is not aligned to the Code, speak up straight away. Always be supportive, compassionate and encouraging to anyone who does speak up. Leaders have an obligation to report conduct concerns.

✓ Always	✕ Never
• Act professionally, courteously and treat everyone with respect at all times (including customers)	• Use offensive language, or engage in unwarranted, unwelcome or violent behaviour
• Comply with all policies, training requirements and regulations	• Harass, abuse, threaten, bully or intimidate others in any way (including sexually)
• Only make employment decisions including recruitment, promotion, development, training, renumeration based on merit, performance, qualifications skills and capabilities	• Behave in a way that could reasonably be viewed as offensive, insulting, intimidating, malicious or humiliating; including making comments about personal characteristics (including toward customers)
• Challenge inappropriate, exclusionary or discriminatory behaviour	• Make unwelcome requests for a romantic or intimate relationship with a colleague
• Use devices appropriately and ensure content accessed at work, language, communication and activities are respectful and don't bring TriCab into disrepute	• Distribute, display or share any material that could reasonably offend including pornography, inappropriate videos, photos, social media content and any personal information that does not relate to you
• Encourage and support everyone to voice suggestions for improvement, be present and practice active listening	• Take part in or facilitate hospitality or entertainment of an inappropriate nature or at inappropriate venues including accepting or facilitating inappropriate gifts
• Speak up to if you see, hear or experience disrespectful behaviour directed toward yourself or anyone else	• Discriminate against any individual or group based on personal attributes unrelated to job performance
• Act on all complaints, issues or incidents reported to you	• Treat someone differently for industrial activities (e.g. belonging/not belonging to a union)

2. Success comes from caring about our community

TriCab is committed to respecting human rights, undertaking continual improvement and demonstrating environmental sustainability. Employees must consider the environmental, social and ethical impacts of our operations, including abiding by employment laws, OHS regulations and in selecting suppliers and service providers.

Consider and respect human rights

We all have a responsibility to uphold human rights. If you suspect someone is being exploited, ill-treated, controlled, or forced by someone else to work or provide services, you need to report breaches or concerns. You must follow processes, policies and procedures for addressing Modern Slavery and consider human rights when making decisions in your role.

✓ Always	✕ Never
• Consider ethical practices when selecting, contracting or engaging suppliers and service providers and aim to choose suppliers and service providers committed to social responsibility	• Threaten, punish, discipline or retaliate against anyone for raising or addressing a human rights concern
• Comply with all policies, training requirements and labour laws/regulations including obtaining pre-qualifying compliance documentation	• Intentionally select suppliers and service providers who do not align with our values or have a disregard for human rights
• Practice due diligence by conducting appropriate checks and risk assessments on labour hire agencies, suppliers and service providers to assess alignment with human rights and company values	• Intentionally engage in behaviours that limit one's ability to exercise their rights or strip someone of their rights
• Raise any human rights concerns via the Grievance Procedure, Whistleblower Hotline or the Modern Slavery Grievance and Remediation Procedure	• Intentionally favour individuals from a political, religious or ethnic group on the basis of them belonging to that group
• Ensure human rights complaints are investigated and managed	• Ignore a human rights complaint or fail to report a concern
• Respect the cultures and customs of communities in which we operate (as long as they do not conflict with the law or our Code)	• Ignore the views and expectations of stakeholders when making decisions on issues that concern them

Be environmentally responsible

In accordance with TriCab's Environmental Policy, we are committed to fulfilling moral and legal responsibilities related to protecting the environment. All employees have an obligation to enact the company's policy in their immediate work activities and environment.

TriCab's key commitments include:

- Upholding regulations concerning air borne particulate and gas discharge
- Upholding regulations concerning sewer and drainage discharge
- Monitoring usage of resources such as fuel, water, electricity and gas
- Recycling materials and waste minimisation
- Adopting circular economy principles where possible
- Maintaining a sustainable environment and undertaking continual improvement activities aimed at reducing carbon emissions
- Protection of wildlife and flora where possible, considering land usage

✓ Always	✕ Never
• Identify, understand and act on environmental obligations in your control such as minimising waste, recycling, noise and pollution	• Undertake work that has the potential to impact the environment unless trained to do so
• Immediately stop work that may contribute to a significant environmental impact event such as a major accident, release of material or spill	• Engage suppliers or contractors without undertaking a pre-qualifying assessment to understand their environmental impact and performance
• Report any actual or potential impact to the environment to your manager	• Ignore or fail to report an environmental concern, accident or incident
• Take steps to avoid and minimise adverse environmental impacts associated with your work and identify opportunities to improve environmental performance	• Dispose of hazardous or industrial materials, including pests or animals on site, without approval from WHS
• Encourage others to minimise environmental impacts and take opportunities to improve performance	• Fail to follow waste management procedures or dispose of consumables like gloves, tissues, ear plugs and general rubbish in an irresponsible or careless manner

3. We are motivated to produce with integrity and innovation

Our core values centre around promoting diverse perspectives, fostering accountability, promoting collaboration and having a deep understanding of customer needs, which together foster innovation. Acting with integrity requires abiding by the law, policies and rules, communicating with honesty and clarity, and taking ownership, initiative and responsibility over your work. Adopting our Quality Policy and working under the standards of 6S is central to producing product that is innovative, high-quality and creates value.

✓ Always	✗ Never
• Collaborate with integrity, share the load, step up and help others when needed and effectively allocate resources	• Take credit for other people's work, unfairly undermine ideas or effort from colleagues or allow others to pick up the slack
• Follow SOPs, systematic processes, 6S principles, the quality manual and embrace new technology with adaptability and openness	• Intentionally shut down improvements, suggestions, create silos that silence perspectives or fail to follow SOPs, processes and work instructions
• Engage in solution focused discussions to build trust, empowerment and accountability and treat concerns with politeness and respect (including customer concerns)	• Treat customers and colleagues with dismissiveness, disrespect, rudeness and/or unhelpfulness when representing TriCab, or cause reputational or relational damage to TriCab
• Welcome opportunities for training, learning and development and take measured risks and act with autonomy, take initiative and execute tasks proactively	• Refuse to participate in training, learning and development initiatives such as performance reviews and compliance training, adopting new processes, or work without initiative
• Follow required conduct standards to reduce pressure on others and promote consistent rules to build a supportive culture including: Maintaining satisfactory attendance, working all contracted hours, sticking to designated break times, starting shifts on time, following the correct process for taking leave, informing of absences	• Engage in misconduct and put undue pressure on your team by being unreliable, failing to attend, taking longer breaks, coming in late, not applying for leave the correct way, failing to finish work when there is enough time to do so, being unproductive, or not helping others when you can
• Follow 6S principles, taking responsibility for your work environment, adopt procedures and follow standards	• Leave or make workspaces messy, unorganised, dirty, unsafe or out of alignment to standards
• Engage with wellbeing initiatives and provide feedback when asked	• Pass up chances to give feedback, be creative, or share your ideas

Managers and leaders are expected to identify when behaviour or conduct may be falling short and address it promptly to avoid negative impacts on workplace culture, productivity and satisfaction. Employees are expected to know the standards required of them, seek clarification if unsure, take pride in their workspace and contribute to the best of their ability. This includes being receptive to feedback, open to change, adaptable in their approach, taking responsibility for the order and cleanliness of the work area and acting with initiative.

Manage corruption risks

Bribery and corruption are prohibited at TriCab. Anyone working for or on behalf of TriCab must comply with anti-bribery and corruption laws. There are no grey areas, and where this is not respected, civil and criminal penalties may apply. Suspected breaches must be reported immediately.

- It is prohibited to offer, give or promise anything of value to anyone with the goal of influencing them in their role, either directly or indirectly.
- It is prohibited to request or accept anything of value to improperly influence you in your role.
- Any items given to external stakeholders should be given with pre-approval, must be legal under local laws, offered for legitimate business purposes (never to reward action or improperly influence), not be offered with frequency, not be capable of causing reputational damage to TriCab, and be of appropriate nature and value.

✓ Always	✗ Never
• Follow the anti-bribery and corruption policy and report gifts or conflicts of interests to the HR & Governance Manager	• Offer, promise, give or approve anything of value to a government official to influence official action
• Seek pre-approval for anything of value as under the policy guidelines using accurate and complete information	• Award business to a company owned by a government official, relatives or associates in exchange for benefit to you or to TriCab
• Understand the identity, roles and interests of those you are dealing with in your role	• Deal with a party who refuses to disclose their full identity, or use a supplier you have concerns will engage in corrupt or improper behaviour
• Immediately report any corruption concerns to the General Manager, HR Manager, CFO or Whistleblower Hotline	• Use personal funds, divide payments into smaller amounts to avoid approval requirements, keep inaccurate records or hide activity to bypass policy guidelines
• Accurately record all transactions with appropriate information and detail; always record to reflect their true nature	• Offer, promise, give, accept or approve arrangements which give an improper benefit to anyone

Value supplier relationships

Our suppliers are central to our business and operations, but using suppliers who are not reputable, qualified or competent can have significant impacts. Suppliers who act illegally or unethically can impact our reputation and expose TriCab and our employees to civil and criminal penalties. We must encourage supplies to be transparent and ethical, following responsible procurement practices wherever possible. We should always seek to inform suppliers of our expectations and use suppliers who are willing to adhere to similar standards as ours and utilise pre-qualifying documentation before engaging large scale purchases or long-term supply contracts. If you are required to source goods or services on our behalf, you should only engage with suppliers who share our commitments to:

- Lawful business practices and high standards of business conduct
- Management practices that respect human rights (preferably have policies addressing Modern Slavery) and are willing to complete due-diligence documentation
- Minimum standards as outlined in our Supplier Code of Conduct including workplace health and safety
- Minimising environmental impact (and preferably track this data)

✓ Always	✗ Never
• Follow the Modern Slavery and Human Rights Policy; provide the Supplier Code of Conduct and due diligence documentation; follow processes to record information; ensure appropriate approval has been sought to enter into any agreements; monitor compliance standards; collect all information	• Use suppliers who breach, do not comply with, refuse to participate in returning documentation to meet the standards of our Code and supplier onboarding process or ignore signs that the supplier may be engaging in inappropriate, illegal or unethical behaviour
• Speak up about any activity that is inconsistent with our Codes, conduct regular reviews of supplier relationships and performance	• Disclose a supplier's confidential business information (e.g. proposed rates) directly or indirectly to another supplier
• Ensure a valid purchase order has been received by the supplier before they provide goods or services; including payment information (basis and rate)	• Deal with a supplier who may represent a corruption or human rights abuse risk or refuses to disclose beneficial ownership
• Select suppliers that are reputable, competent and qualified to perform / provide work, will operate in compliance with laws, health and safety and appropriate compensation	• Award or influence the award of business to a supplier that may have direct or indirect financial interest to yourself; suggest or request anything of value from a supplier
• Accurately record all transactions with appropriate information and detail; always record to reflect their true nature	• Approve a purchase requisition that does not meet TriCab requirements or expectations

Manage competition law risks

Across the Group, we are committed to abiding by competition laws. Employees are required to familiarise themselves with the Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy to understand our commitment to compliance, and their local laws, and report any concerns to their Country Manager. Competition laws are designed to promote fair competition and prevent practices that restrain trade. Some prohibited practices include:

- price fixing
- market sharing
- bid rigging
- abuse of position

Breaching these laws can result in imprisonment and fines for the employee and TriCab. Never collude with competitors or potential competitors and maintain independence in dealings with third parties.

✓ Always	✗ Never
• Maintain TriCab's independence when dealing with third parties in relation to pricing, marketing and selling	• Agree with a competitor to fix, raise, lower or stabilise price of goods sold or purchased, including in recruitment
• Consider the implications of interacting with a competitor, whether in business or personal settings	• Agree competitive terms with a competitor such as pricing formulae, discounts, margins, rebates, credit terms and commissions
• Avoid any action that could imply illegal coordination with competitors	• Limit production or agree with a competitor to reduce capacity
• Ensure written communications are clear and accurate	• Rig a bid or otherwise illegally coordinate bidding and tendering activities
• Accurately record all transactions with appropriate information and detail; always record to reflect their true nature	• Allocate markets, customers, suppliers or territories with a competitor, or agree to boycott a customer or supplier with a competitor
• Check local laws for rules which apply to you and report any concerns, misunderstanding, or risks; immediately report if inappropriate contact is initiated by a competitor to the Country Manager and/or General Manager – TriCab Group	• Obstruct a competition authority by providing false or misleading information, preventing investigation, concealing documents, alerting third parties

Avoid conflicts of interest

Every decision we make should be free from potential bias and in the Company's best interest; and this includes ensuring that any conflict of interest (actual, potential or perceived) is appropriately disclosed and managed. This means any decision where your interests or activities affect or may appear to affect, your independence, judgement and objectivity; such as having investments in certain suppliers associated with TriCab; receiving money or other gifts from anyone proposing to do business with TriCab; being in a close personal relationship with someone under your reporting line; holding outside jobs or affiliations; and recommending or making decisions based on personal interests (close relationships, political, religious or special interest groups). All conflicts of interest should be logged in the Conflict-of-Interest Register and reported to the GM or HR Manager. Always remove yourself from any decision-making process where you have an interest that could impact your ability to be objective. Never hire, promote, supervise or use businesses of someone who is a close relative unless this has been authorised and recorded in the Register. Never interfere with transparent operation of bid and tender activities; offer or accept favours or benefits during the tender process, or misuse TriCab resources or your position to promote or assist a third party.

Respect trade control laws

We must respect international trade laws and ensure we comply with them. If we are involved in transactions that breach these laws, which are developed to protect foreign policy and security, it may expose TriCab and employees to criminal and civil penalties, sanctions and other consequences, causing significant damage. You must comply with trade control and anti-boycott laws. Never undertake business activity with a party that is sanctioned or owned by or operating from a sanctioned country or territory and never conceal the true identity or other facts of a transaction to evade trade control restrictions.

4. We protect each other and the company

Protect our assets – equipment, facilities, systems and intellectual property

We must ensure that we protect TriCab assets, including safeguarding software and systems, intellectual property, equipment, strategic plans, operational data and inventory. Every employee is responsible for the appropriate use and protection of TriCab assets and for respecting the physical and non-physical property of the company and fellow employees. You must never knowingly damage, steal or misappropriate assets.

✓ Always	✕ Never
• Use assets for their intended purpose and protect assets from waste, damage, misuse, interference, unauthorised access, modification or disclosure loss, fraud and theft	• Use TriCab assets for personal gain, permit unauthorised entry to our sites or access to our information technology; or take TriCab property or assets for personal use
• Report any potential waste, damage, misuse, loss, fraud or theft; suspicious emails, texts or calls; actual or suspected ransomware or cyber extorsion	• Transfer data or information outside of TriCab systems without prior approval, click on suspicious links, or fail to forward suspicious emails to IT
• Refer to data disposal and management rules in the Privacy Policy and local laws	• Enter into or fail to report unauthorised or fraudulent activity
• Capture and create data that is accurate and meets our quality standards	• Take any action which undermines the integrity of master, customer or vendor data
• Safeguard competitively sensitive and proprietary information and follow policies around devices, cards and cars	• Ignore security complaints, risks or procedure gaps that may present a threat to TriCab

Inappropriate use of technology and data can expose the company to risks and vulnerabilities, including cyber-attacks, data breaches, theft or loss of property and more. Disciplinary action may be taken and civil or criminal authorities notified, if you use our technology and data inappropriately, or inappropriate material is accessed or stored using our systems. Inappropriate material includes pornographic or sexually explicit or exploitative images or text, materials promoting violence, hatred, racism, religious beliefs, terrorism or the intolerance of others, or any other material that is deemed obscene or abusive. Moderate personal use is permitted, provided there is compliance with these rules.

✓ Always	✗ Never
• Treat emails and electronic communication as official records and never use, modify, transfer, share, remove or delete data or intellectual property without written authorisation	• Disable security measures on your devices, leave devices unattended in public places, install software or connect hardware without written authorisation from IT ; access systems or applications with no business justification
• Use authorised applications for business communications and activities and stay vigilant toward phishing, malware and cyber threats	• Deliberately access, store, send, post or publish inappropriate material, or fail to report others who are doing so
• Ensure your devices have the latest security and software updates and lock your screens when away from the workstation	• Store, send, post or publish TriCab data or proprietary information outside of our systems or devices including social media without prior authorisation
• Protect hardware, software and data you are responsible for from damage, loss, theft, interference, unauthorised access, modification, disclosure or use	• Use outside storage solutions (external hard drives, USBs, personal emails) to store TriCab data or copy or transfer files that violate copyright laws
• Return TriCab equipment and information assets upon termination of employment or contract, including site keys or access cards. Promptly report lost or stolen keys and access cards	• Commit a crime online, engage in fraud, or fail to report fraud or divulge passwords or allow anyone to access technology and systems using your login credentials
• Consider whether confidentiality agreements are required when engaging with someone outside of TriCab who may gain access to confidential information or intellectual property (IP)	• Share, copy or introduce new technologies or processes without checking it does not infringe on a third party's IP
• Keep any new IP confidential such as innovations or process improvements	• Use copyright materials in anything you produce or bring materials from previous employers

Report truthfully

We must ensure that our data and information is recorded accurately, maintain complete source documents, and utilise the correct document management processes to inform financial and non-financial reporting, decision making and proper verification for compliances processes. Employees must follow the correct branding standards, document control processes and record keeping processes. All data must be collected and represented accurately and truthfully.

Respect personal information and privacy

We must abide by the privacy laws that govern each jurisdiction in which we operate. All Australian employees should familiarise themselves with the Australian Privacy Principles and ensure data is collected and managed in accordance with these rules, as well as our Privacy Policy. The policy also contains information on your rights in relation to the personal information we hold about you.

Each Country Manager is responsible for ensuring data protection in their jurisdictions and/or assigning an appropriate Privacy Officer to maintain compliance.

Personal information includes names, addresses, job applications, employment information, performance records, health and safety information, location data, opinions and correspondences to and from an individual. Personal information which can be used to identify a person must be protected to maintain trust and privacy and prevent harm.

Key Privacy Principles

- Open and transparent management of personal information – what, why, how
- Fair, lawful and necessary collection – use and disclosure limited to the purpose
- Notification and consent – individuals must be notified of collection
- Access, accuracy and correction – individuals can see and correct information
- Protection and security – secure personal data against misuse and breaches
- Cross-border disclosure – check laws and use extra closure if sending data overseas
